LANGUAGE CLASSES For Migrant Domestic Workers

To improve Indonesian MDWs' English, in 2019, CMDW collaborated with Hong Kong University students to provide a platform where Indonesian MDWs could attend English classes every Sunday from August to September 2019.

While in our shelter, the group continued teaching English from October to November 2019. In addition to this, volunteers from local churches and intern from university also taught Cantonese to shelter resident that focus on basic Cantonese conversation and cover subjects on household items, groceries, direction and simple introduction.
